

Employment Rights Explained

Free Webinar

Do you want to learn more about workplace rights that support stronger employment outcomes for your family member with disability?

Are you interested in learning more about community-based employment pathways?

The Supported Employment and Advocacy Project aims to assist people with high support needs and their families to make informed decisions, understand their employment options including rights, as well as how to navigate the employment support system.

Who is the webinar for?

Family members whose family member with disability are:

- working in a supported employment environment (known as Australian Disability Enterprises)
- working very limited hours (less than 8 hours per week)
- not currently working
- attending a day service or activities
- facing multiple barriers to finding employment
- seeking an alternative employment option to what they are currently accessing, or
- a young person transitioning from school to work

The Project

This is a national project led by Inclusion Australia and Disability Advocacy Network Australia. Funded by the Department of Social Services. Inclusion Australia is the national peak body for intellectual disability. Family Advocacy has been engaged to work with and directly support families alongside people with disability.

Event Details:

Date: Tuesday, 4 August 2026

Time: 5.30pm to 7pm AEST

Cost: Free, but registrations are essential. Online via Zoom.

What is this free webinar about?

As well as outlining various employment pathways, this webinar for families will explore employment rights for people with disability, what to do if those rights are not upheld or recognised and how families can support and advocate for their family member in the workplace.
