

resourcing
inclusive communities
An initiative of Family Advocacy

My Home, My Way

A three-part online workshop to assist people with disability to create and thrive in their own home.

My Home, My Way is an initiative by the National Alliance of Capacity Building Organisations (NACBO)

Friday, 17 September
Friday, 24 September
Friday, 01 October

1pm - 3.30pm
Register at ric.org.au/events

Interactive online workshops with parent guest speakers covering:

- As a person with disability, what does it mean to have your own home?
- What would make it possible to have your own home and what does the evidence say?
- Make and hold a personalised vision for home
- First steps to consider when making a unique home of your own
- Living in your own home and settling in
- Options for home and creative supports
- Barriers, challenges and fears
- Home as a part of community and neighbourhood
- Set up for long term safety and success
- Stories about people living in their own home with a range of supports

Who is this workshop for?

People with disability, their families and advocates.

What is home for people with disability?

Home is a vital part of our lives. It not only gives us security, privacy, comfort and control but it reflects our identity, our adulthood and our deep sense of who we are and how we connect and belong in our neighbourhood.

Yet for many people, particularly people with disability, 'home' is designed and controlled by others.

In this three-part workshop you'll learn about the individualised and innovative ways that people with disability have created their own home, while getting the support they need.

Cost: $50 (people with disability and families); $75 (professionals and allies).